Construct	Description	Syntax
class	a description of a set of objects that share the same attributes, operations, methods, relationships and semantics.
interface	a named set of operations that characterize the behavior of an element.
component	a modular, replaceable and significant part of a system that packages implementation and exposes a set of interfaces.
node	a run-time physical object that represents a computational resource.	